

A photograph of the exterior of The Hilton San Antonio Hill Country hotel at dusk. The image shows a large, covered entrance area supported by thick, light-colored stone pillars. The ceiling of the entrance is illuminated with warm, yellow light. Several ornate, black metal lantern-style light fixtures are mounted on the pillars and under the eaves. To the right, a multi-story building with a stone facade and balconies is visible. The balconies have dark metal railings and are lit from below. Large windows on the building are also visible. In the foreground, there are some potted plants and a paved area. The overall atmosphere is warm and inviting.

A large, curved outdoor swimming pool with clear blue water. In the foreground, a curved concrete deck with a metal handrail leads into the pool. A depth marker on the pool's edge reads "3 FT 3 IN 10". To the left, there's a patio area with a table, chairs, and a large beige umbrella. In the background, more lounge chairs are lined up near a fenced area with trees. On the right, a stone wall features a waterfall cascading into the pool. A depth marker further back reads "4 FT 12".
